

Frozen Balloons Experiment

Fill some balloons with water and leave in the freezer for two days (or outside if cold enough).

As water freezes (at  $0^{\circ}\text{C}$  and below) impurities come out as bubbles.

Bubbles scatter light and give a beautiful white opaque centre.

Opaque means see through but not transparent.

